

Commissioner Pai, when did you sell out? Before or after you worked for Verizon? These are not rhetorical questions and I expect an answer. I called your office a few weeks ago and left a message. I assume that as a lawyer working at the FCC you know how to use a phone. Either you didn't receive my message or you're too busy planning your next step on the journey to making this country more fucked up than it already is. I think you are an intellectually dishonest asshole given the lame 1L analysis you provided in defense of a "[not] free and [not] open internet". Your claim that ISP's will not discriminate against competitors is wholly false and easily contradicted. You need look no further than the Google Wallet v. ISIS (payment system) debacle in which T-Mobile and other carriers blocked Google Wallet in favor of their payment system, ISIS. Is my example not applicable? If so, please state in detail citing relevant legal authorities to support your proposition.
